The Romsdal Museum
Jan 2016 - Present

Early in 2016 Erik was assigned to make world wide press and marketing photos of the new administration building at the Museum of Romsdal in Norway. The building is designed by Reiulf Ramstad Architects.

The Romsdal museum complex has become an architectonic attraction and a treasured landmark which embodies a whole region's history and identity. The intention is to let the structure signal its meaning and function through an architectural expression and the use of place-specific materials. It should convey an open and progressive attitude that makes diverse utilization possible. The range of perspectives and activities will ensure a broad audience, with the museum becoming a living centre for the exploration of the region's history, contemporary culture, and even future.

UPDATE: 080716 Romsdal Folk Museum has been shortlisted in this year's World Architecture Festival Awards in the Culture - Completed Buildings category.

SERVICE

For other PRO photographers

What can i do for other professional photographers?

For many other international well known photographers i do their film development, drums scanning and post production. That means digital and traditional retouching. I can also deliver custom handprinting in both B&W and colour. See my brooil section and see what i can make of dramatic, fine art out of your black and white negatives.
