I began my career as an amateur photographer/writer in 1992, before becoming a professional by getting a degree at TEA and Fotoclub Buenos Aires. I have been working mainly in the rock scene. All my biographical data related to that field can be found in my own website MetalEyeWitness.com. I work for magazines and websites, doing covers and general photography, and also writing. I did countless album covers and photosessions with bands. My photographic work outside the rock world, like the one in this site, still remains unpublished. Photography is among my first passions, where not only rock has a place, but numerous projects in areas such as wildlife, entertainment and art. I believe that in this profession, the gathering of knowledge and experience rise in line with the constant desire to capture images with the aim to endure the illusion of Time, with my own vision, through the lens of a camera.
